AMERICAN

GOOD

THE LOOMS OF NEW ENGLAND have come to be today the wonder of the world. Yankee skill and ingenuity is able to duplicate the finest productions of England and France, and at from onethird to one-half the cost.

How can they do it? How can they produce a fine, even, sightly fabric embellished with the daintiest of color printings for so nominal a sum? Give it up. The goods are here to amaze both you and us. Adequate description is utterly impossible, but the following hints

DAINTY SWISSES

DAINTY SWISSES-Perfect reproductions of the European originals; you could not tell the differnce-nor could we. The weave and the color effects are worthy of goods costing several times the price.

DIMITIES

There are many, many new patterns in this ever popular fabric. The styles are French but the product is entirely American.

BATISTES 15c

Than these no cloth or color stands the laundry better. The French product sells at 30c a yard. These patterns made at the mills of Lowell. Mass., we guarantee to be as solid in colors, as lasting and as pretty, at exactly half the price of the foreign materials.

PERCALES-No need to say that where a strong, closely woven wash fabric is wanted nothing is quite as good as percale. You have your choice of some fifty patterns.

And then there are white goods and printed goods and goods dyed in the yarn; in fact, no such assemblage of wash goods beauty has ever been gathered here before. Come and see it.

Imagine King street twenty feet from store to store. then take off four feet on each side for sidewalks, put in telephone poles, and what have you got left? It would look as though the city authorities ought to know that any addition to the city, however remote, will eventually be built up, and that a street less than forty feet from curb to curb is too parrow for traffic, and that any addition with streets narrower than forty feet should not be filed. If there is no law that keeps property holders from filing such additions, it is time one was

Why do people generally suppose that the Salvation Army, Peniel Mission and Gospel tents are for the benefit of the slums? We read about their work in slums of the big cities. among the low grog-shops, fallen women and the like, and our hearts expand and we wish we could only find them to donate some of our hard-earned quarters. Wherever we have wandered we have found them, in the lowest, dirtiest part of the city. Here in Honolulu we find them wffere? In Kakaako, Kewalo, along the waterfront? No; I guess not. I wonder if the parties that run the Kash store or the Hoffman saloon would be complimented by telling them they were in the siums of Honolulu? Some time ago one of the papers

Why do those who are interested in plantations howl about no labor for the plantation? They send men to Washington and say they can't run h their plantations without Asiatics. They say that all that have been s brought here are still on the plantations, but they have not got enough yet. I wonder if the laboring class in Honolulu think, after hunting around n town or on the waterfront for a job, there are any Japs or Chinese left n on the plantations. Is there a single building in the course of erection today in Honolulu that Japanese and Chinese are not doing most of the labor upon? Who is putting in the foundation for the building on the corner of Merchant and Alakea street? Who built the stone building on King street in the burned district, and who are putting up the brick building; there now? Of course this makes no difference to white stone masons or bricklayers.
